

Is anybody listening?

Oh, no - there's no reply at all . . .

Here are just a few quotes from the fifteen citizens that spoke to the Board of Education at the September 9th meeting about the safety of newly created, not consolidated, school bus stops this year.

“Are you really expecting to save hundreds of thousands of dollars with these changes?”

“Is it worth the additional risk to children?”

“If someone would actually listen”

“Please send an email out or something. Listen to us.”

“Why fix something if it is not broken?”

“The sheer number of calls that you are getting this year should tell you something.”

“We hope that you take steps to rectify this situation immediately before a truly tragic situation occurs.”

Did you receive a copy of the district's E-News this week?

It seems to me that it could have been a perfect opportunity to say . . . SOMETHING and respond to the concerns of hundreds of parents who have emailed and called these past three weeks.

Yet there's no reply at all, there's no reply at all.

By Jennifer Mondy

September 16, 2009

NOTE: Spotlight Editorial delivers opinions and analysis of issues discussed at Board of Education meetings. The perspectives expressed are strictly those of the editor and are not endorsed by any PTA, parent organization, District 15 or 211 employee or Board of Education.